

IRS Backlog in Processing Tax Payments

Many taxpayers have been receiving balance-due notices from the IRS even though they sent in their tax payments to the IRS months ago, because trailers full of mail have remained unopened during the pandemic.

Taxpayers shouldn't cancel the checks they have sent. The IRS has assured that, once the payment is processed, they will record the payment as of the date received, not the date they process it.

If you receive a notice from the IRS (or other government authority) for which you have questions, feel free to contact us and we will be able to assist you in the next steps.
